

EUGENICS RACE SALVATION

RABBI WISE ON THE RIGHT OF CHILDREN TO BE WELL BORN.

Tells Congregation That It Means Race Culture and Not Race Suicide—Would Restore the Dignity of Motherhood—New Education and Statesmanship.

Eugenics is a word better known perhaps in Great Britain, where Sir Francis Galton, the distinguished relative of Darwin, continues in his old age to preach the doctrine that he founded, than it is in this country. But eugenics, call it a theory, doctrine or religion, has one enthusiastic devotee on this side of the water in Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, who spoke to his congregation of the Free Synagogue on the subject of race culture at Carnegie Hall yesterday morning.

"Eugenics aims to emphasize parental responsibility and to bring about the quickening and guidance if not control of such sense of responsibility by the state," he told his audience. "The science of eugenics has suffered because of the confusion of the terms race suicide and race culture. Between race culture and race suicide there is a difference between a race earnestly bent upon bettering and perpetuating itself and a race not only too indolent to concern itself with remote posterity but even too basely self-indulgent to be ready to bear the burden of parenthood."

"Eugenics demands the birth of children well born, normally born; that is born to heredity and environment, that are likely to produce a strong and wholesome life. Nothing is as important and inclusive as the right of the child to be well born; nothing can wholly repair the wrong done to a child that is ill born. "No question can be more truly religious than the question which rightly answered means the bringing to pass of the birth of a generation that shall be better fitted to live and that shall not only find life worth living but be enabled to live worthily. For centuries the Second Commandment has been viewed as symptomatic of the vindictiveness of the God of Israel, and now we find that it is nothing more than the utterance of a scientific truth. The same factor is venerated upon the children under the third and fourth generation."

"It is eugenics that would avert race suicide, that would make it impossible, by virtue of its concern with the problem that the largest number of the right kind of children be born and not any number of any kind of children. It is an attempt to restore the dignity of motherhood. We must go back to the apothecary of motherhood of every mother who shares in the divinely ordered processes which give life to mankind, and to the right of the mother to make her own choice of life."

"It may prove to be the function of eugenics to remodel our educational ideals, but as Haycock Ellis has said, it matters comparatively little whether we give our children the primary matter is what sort of children we have to educate. We have no greater need than to recognize that eugenics is a preparation for the supreme duty of parenthood. Eugene science insists upon a thorough education for our youth touching sex hygiene and sex physiology. We can get away from the old idea that we will get women teachers. Women shall be as deeply concerned in their future husbands' moral standards as the fathers in the financial standing of their sons-in-law."

"Eugenics will undoubtedly give rise to a new statesmanship that shall help us to a true concept of national wealth and national life, that shall move us to understand that the nation is richer that contains the largest number of well born, healthful, contented, upright citizens. It may not teach England to understand that the chief thing is not to reduce the number of Germans but to see to it that more Englishmen are born of the right kind."

Rabbi Wise went on to show how this theory of living would completely eliminate child labor and would force the state to work for the future, to advance the work of women. He prophesied that some day the State would be wise enough to pension a needy mother who gives life to another and who can alone be the maintainer of her children, to give her through life but adequate for maintenance during the crucial years of dependent childhood."

The result of the eugenics practice would be, he concluded, Dr. Wise, the reemphasis of parental responsibility, the reaffirmation of the right of the child to be well born, the safeguarding of the child phase of life, the insistence that the new education shall not only fit the present generation to earn a livelihood but shall insure the future for the future generations, and lastly the formulation of a new statesmanship which shall really seek to direct the life of a nation in the interest of a permanent national welfare and an indelible national security."

ADVERTISING FRAUD CHARGED.

Man Who Says He Is Abraham Kline of Brooklyn Held in Boston.

Boston, Nov. 13. Deputy Superintendent Warren and Inspector Joseph Longhin last night arrested a man who gave his name as Abraham Kline and his residence as Brooklyn. At present he is looked on as suspicious, but on Monday morning the officers will apply for a warrant charging him with the larceny of a check for $120, the property of J. Fred Harvey of Harvey & Wood, owners of the Hotel Bellevue.

According to the police Kline secured the money through the alleged insertion of a page advertisement in a directory. He was arrested at the Hotel Bellevue, where he was staying. He is now in custody of the police.

A week or so ago he was arrested at the Bellevue with a copy of the book, dated 1909. He was released on $100 bail to insert a page advertisement in the Bellevue in the 1910 book for $120. Mr. Harvey contracted for a page. Yesterday Kline made his appearance with a book of nearly 2,000 pages, bound in red and green leather and well gotten up. Near the front was the Bellevue address. He was arrested on the spot for $120 and the police were notified. The police say that he is also known by the names of L. M. Morris and T. Morse.

POISON MURDER SUSPECTED.

Prosecutor Has Autopsies Held on Bodies of Weak-Minded Brothers.

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 13.—District Attorney Simmons of Wayne county and Justice of the Peace Smith of White Mills today had physicians perform an autopsy upon the body of the two weak-minded brothers, Edward and Charles Kunkle, who it is charged, were poisoned. The body of Edward, aged 42, was found in the barn, and that of Charles, aged 40, under a bed.

The brothers were farm hands and lived with their seventy-year-old father, Frank Kunkle, who is a feeble-minded man. When the bodies were found by a neighbor, the father manifested so much indifference that suspicion was aroused. It is known that the men gave much trouble recently, and that recently he was heard to say that he wished he was able to place his boys in some institution.

After the autopsy today the intention was taken to Scranton for chemical analysis.

CIVIC FEDERATION CALL.

Matters Relating to Nation and State to Be Taken Up at Annual Meeting.

A call was issued yesterday by President Seth Low for the eleventh annual convention of the National Civic Federation, to be held in this city on January 12, 13 and 14, 1911. At the same time the State council organized by the Federation in the last year will have their first national meeting. The various bodies will hold separate meetings and these topics will be considered. Regulation of corporations and municipalities, utilities, compensation for industrial accidents, and arbitration and conciliation. With a view to ascertaining how far the methods in other countries will apply in America, the potash syndicate recently established by the German Government and other foreign institutions with their methods will be taken up.

The street car strikes in Philadelphia and Columbus and the strike just ended of the expressmen in this city, Long Island and Jersey City will be discussed at length, and suggestions will be made for submission to the State and national legislatures for arbitration of labor troubles and government business.

On behalf of the Federation a statement as to its work in the cause of legislative harmony was issued which said: "Whether we call it new nationalism or old morality, the fact remains that there is an interminable conflict between the States themselves on some matters and between the States and the Federal Government on others. There are many questions with which the States alone can and should deal through uniform action; there are other questions with which only the Federal Government can deal effectively, and still others in which coordination of effort between the States and nation is essential, the only test being which control is the more desirable and effective from the standpoint of public welfare."

The importance of this situation to all business, commercial and industrial institutions is clearly recognized when we consider that our larger corporations, such as the railroads, telegraph, insurance, banking and trust companies, and in fact, so far as taxation is concerned, all manufacturing and commercial plants are in different States, are subject to forty-six masters, each with a mind quite different from that of the others. The diversity of State laws on ordinary commercial matters, such as warehouse receipts, bills of lading and negotiable instruments, the urgent need for a uniform bill on compensation for industrial accidents, all manufacturing and commercial plants are in different States, are subject to forty-six masters, each with a mind quite different from that of the others.
